Choquequirao to Machu Picchu Trek 9 Days

The name Choquequirao means "Cradle of Gold" and this settlement was one of the last refuges for those Incas who continued to resist Spanish occupation after the conquest. Choquequirao is less well-known than Machu Picchu and the trek to get there is a unique experience.

The site was eventually abandoned and became covered in dense cloud forest vegetation, and to this day archaeologists continue to unearth new sectors of the city.

On this adventurous trek we will walk Inca highways, hike through high Andean landscapes, descend into deep canyons and pass through biologically diverse cloud forest ecosystems.

This program combines visits to two major archaeological sites: remote and seldom-visited Choquequirao, and legendary Machu Picchu. It is a fascinating adventure through part of the old empire of the Incas and one of Peru's most unspoiled wilderness areas.

Day 1: Cusco – Cachora – Chiquisca.

At 5:00am, we pick you up from your hotel, then drive in our private bus to Cachora (2,850m/9,407ft) for 4 hours. Along the way there are spectacular views of villages, valleys and snow-capped mountains. Once at Cachora we meet our horsemen and horses and pack all our equipment onto the horses.

After enjoying a boxed breakfast we start walking to Capuliyoc until lunch time where we enjoy great views of Apurimac Canyon, snow-capped mountains such as Padreyoc (5,571m/18,387ft) and the location of Choquequirao. After lunch we then descend to our first campsite at Chiquisca (1,900m/6,270ft).

Meals provided: Breakfast/Lunch/Dinner.

Accommodation: Camping facilities

Maximum Altitude: 2,850m/9,407ft.

Minimum Altitude: 1,900m/6,270ft.

Distance to walk: 18km approx.

Difficulty: Easy/Moderate.

Day 2: Chiquisca - Maranpata - Choquequirao.

After an early breakfast we descend to the magnificent Apurimac River (1,550m/5,117ft) and then walk uphill to the rural village of Maranpata (2,850m/9,350ft) where we have lunch whilst enjoying the spectacular views of the archaeological site of Choquequirao (3,150m/10,397ft). Then we will walk through a myriad of flora and fauna to our second evening's campsite located just 20 minutes from the Choquequirao ruins. Here, we may see condors and have the option to spend the late evening at the ruins.

The time stated within this program is approximate and walking time may differ dependent upon the group's capability and progress and as such the guide may change the lunch spot and campsite if it is required. Each guide has his or her own preferred route and it may not follow exactly the schedule described here. However all items listed within the above schedule will be covered.

Trek conditions also vary according to the season. In the dry season (May - September) the trail can be very dusty and hot in the day time, in the wet season (October - March) it can be slippery and muddy and during the shoulder season the conditions can be variable. All year round in the mountains the stone sliding can happen at any time, particularly after heavy rains. SAMtravelperu takes no responsibility for trail condition.

This Trek is adventurous and challenging experience, crossing several high passes and the Rio Blanco which does not have a substantial bridge and can be dangerous to cross in periods of heavy rain. This region is not frequently visited by tourists, therefore tourist infrastructure is limited. Visitors should be aware that things change, or may not go to plan. This is all part of the adventure! We can change the date of your train ticket to the following day. Hotels costs and costs associated with returning to Machu Picchu the following day are additional to trek costs. Please also note that your entry ticket to Machu Picchu is valid for one day only, if you wish to visit the ruins on a second consecutive day you will need to purchase the ticket again. Please bring an open mind, flexibility and a good sense of humor.

We strongly recommend this trek for experienced trekkers or campers.
